Medicine and Nutrition 2011

UNDERNUTRITION: the silent affliction...

Fifth conference of the Société Belge
des Médecins Nutritionnistes
Saturday 8 October 2011

INVITATION

As President of the Société Belge des Médecins Nutritionnistes, I am delighted to invite you to the fifth Medicine and Nutrition conference on 8 October in Brussels, with the theme of "Undernutrition: the silent affliction". This unmissable nutrition event will be organised in partnership with the SBNC (Société Belge de Nutrition Clinique) and the Belgian Nutrition Society (BNS).

It is a characteristic of nutrition that it is rooted in everyone's daily lives. As health and nutrition professionals, our advice to our patients must always be based on scientific foundations, but it must also remain close to changes in the society in which we live and to its challenges and concerns.

Although excess weight and obesity are rarely off the front pages, the scale of other nutrition-related pathologies is greatly underestimated by the media. We therefore thought it vital to review the subject together. During the study day, we will examine the many facets of undernutrition – post-operative undernutrition, undernutrition in cancerology, undernutrition associated with behavioural disorders – not forgetting, of course, the problems of elderly people. We will also discuss the subject from the social, economic and philosophical viewpoints.

The conference has been specifically organised by doctors for doctors, generalist or specialist, and for dietitians, students and anyone who wishes to update their nutritional knowledge. We look forward very much to welcoming you all and sharing a day of fascinating discussion about a highly topical subject.

Dr Anne Boucquiau
President of the SBMN
